Southeast Georgia Health System Welcomes Grigsby as New Chief Financial Officer

BRUNSWICK, Georgia: April 18, 2024 – Southeast Georgia Health System has announced that Stephen “Jan” Grigsby Jr., MHA, FHFMA, will join its executive leadership team as vice president and chief financial officer, effective April 29, 2024.

In his new role, Grigsby will oversee the financial operations of the Health System, as well as all revenue cycle management, which includes patient financial services and billing, patient access and health information.

“Jan joins the Health System with nearly two decades of healthcare financial leadership experience,” says Scott Raynes, MBA, MA, president and chief executive officer, Southeast Georgia Health System. “We are excited about his arrival and look forward to his contributions and leadership as we continue to focus on our organization’s financial performance, patient experience, quality and safety.”

As part of his extensive financial leadership experience, Grigsby has partnered with senior-level teams to execute major turnaround plans, including developing and implementing cost-cutting initiatives, growth plans and joint venture partnerships to help ensure the long-term viability of the organizations he has served.

Prior to joining the Health System, Grigsby served as vice president and chief financial officer for 12 years at Springhill Medical Center, a private, for-profit, regional tertiary care medical center located in Mobile, Alabama. Before Springhill, Grigsby was chief financial officer at Jupiter Medical Center in Jupiter, Florida.

Grigsby completed his undergraduate studies at Brigham Young University and the University of Kentucky in Lexington. He earned his Master in Healthcare Administration from the University of Kentucky. Grigsby is a Fellow in the Healthcare Financial Management Association (FHFMA).

Grigsby and his wife, Laurie, enjoy a wide variety of outdoor activities including boating, golf and traveling. They look forward to relocating to southeast Georgia and discovering the incredible history, scenic nature and charm the community has to offer.
