

Phoebe Putney Health System's Roll Up Your Sleeve Campaign

“Our team has worked incredibly hard throughout this pandemic, and now they’re facing another dangerous surge. For their sake, I’m glad the vaccine is here, and I was proud to set an example and roll up my sleeve to get this shot.”

Dr. James Black
Emergency Services
Medical Director

Roll up your sleeve

“I got the vaccine to help protect, not just myself, but our whole community.”

Dr. Kristin Collier
General Surgeon

“Get vaccinated, because the life you save, may be your own.”

Laquanda Hoskins, RN
Phoebe North

Roll up your sleeve

“I decided to receive the vaccine to protect myself, my family, and my patients. I hope that others will be encouraged to receive the vaccine since those of us in the first round have not experienced negative side effects.”

Mandy Hall, RN
Emergency Center Director

“The vaccine offers our best chance to defeat this virus once and for all. I’m proud that Phoebe is able to provide the vaccine to healthcare workers throughout the communities we serve, and I encourage everyone to get vaccinated when they are eligible to do so.”

Scott Steiner,
President & CEO
Phoebe Putney Health System

Roll up your sleeve

“I feel like I owe all the patients and families I spent time with – sitting with patients while they died and their families were unable to be with them – to do my part to end this mess.”

Rev. Will Runyon
Chaplaincy & Palliative
Care Director

Roll up your sleeve

“I wanted to be one of the first ones to get the vaccination. It is a way to help protect myself and those I come in contact with.”

Dr. Fleming Burroughs
Hospitalist

Roll up your sleeve

“I encourage healthcare workers to get the vaccination because it’s important to do all we can to protect our families and our patients from this virus.”
